

ENABLING QUALITY IMPROVEMENT IN PRACTICE

Tower Hamlets Our Latest Newsletter (09/11/2020)

Do you want to join an Enjoying Work learning system?

To our local practices,

For years we have been harping on about joy (and yes we know it's not everyone's favourite word), thinking of wellbeing at work as the by-product of making change.

We are now ready to take things up a notch, and to learn to work on staff satisfaction for the sake of staff satisfaction itself. So, rather than improve your document workflow and then measure how happy this makes you, we want to work on the things that would make you happy, purely for that reason alone: to improve your experience of being at work.

As ever, we are lucky to have wise and experienced neighbours in this field – our colleagues at ELFT. Who have kindly agreed to offer us a handful of spaces on their virtual Enjoying Work learning systems.

You:

- Are able to attend a monthly learning system.
- Have total backing from your most senior leadership.
- Belong to a team who is ready for this, and has drunk the Kool-Aid.

We:

- Will offer you a coach to support you and your team, as you develop your practice-based project to enjoy work a little bit more.

What does the work entail, you ask? It's this simple:

You can check out ELFT's handy guide for more info: <https://qi.elft.nhs.uk/introducing-the-elft-working-well-handy-guide/>

Action for you: if you're interested, please just wave your hand. By replying to this email, with a few lines around why you're interested, and what your best hopes in joining the learning system. We have limited places, but someone from the team will have chats with anyone who answers to check whether we are both the best fit for each other.

Here's hoping to enjoy work together even more.

Warmly,

The EQUIP team
